

All Strong Families Have These 5 Things in Common:

Parents have the ability to hang-in there, bounce back, and cope with life's ups and downs

Support is available from friends, family & neighbors when needed

Parents know the ages & stages of child growth and development

The family has security about meeting day-to-day basic needs

Parents meet the emotional needs of their children